

Highlights:

- Ultrasound loading leads to reversible degradation of the silicon solar cells
- The ultrasound-induced degradation is intensified in the case of the transverse acoustic waves using
- Degradation is caused by the acoustically induced increase in the carrier capture coefficient for point and extended defects